Aya Suzuki

biography

Japanese percussionist based in Belgium started studying music at the age of six. After graduating high school, a time in which she already played many solo concerts, she went to study at the Toho-Gakuen School of Music in Tokyo, where she was taught by the world-renowned marimba player Keiko Abe. This led up to the first prize at the Contest of Marimba Spiritual in 2012, which was held in the memory of composer Minoru Miki. In 2013 Aya won the first prize in the marimba competition at the Drum Festival in Poland (including the overall Grand Prix) and was a finalist in the South California International Marimba Competition (SCIMC). She studied the Master Program of Percussion at the Royal Conservatory of Ghent and graduated as the top student in the Classic Music Department in 2017. She performed with some ensembles like ictus ensemble, Spectra ensemble Gent and Quixtet. Also, she performs solo programs at numerous festivals.

Aja Suzuki

biografija

Japanska perkusionistkinja iz Belgije počela je da studira muziku sa šest godina. Nakon završene srednje škole, u vreme kad je već izvela mnogo solističkih koncerata, nastavila je studije u muzičkoj školi Toho-Gakuen u Tokiju gde je studirala u klasi svetski poznate marimbistkinje Keiko Abe. Usledila je zatim prva nagrada na takmičenju Marimba Spiritual 2012. koje je održano u znak sećanja na kompozitora Minorua Mikija. Godine 2013. osvaja prvu nagradu na takmičenju marimbe na Festivalu bubnjeva u Poljskoj (uključujući i Grand Prix), a iste godine bila je i finalista Međunarodnog takmičenja marimbe u Južnoj Kaliforniji (SCIMC). Studirala je master program Udaraljke na Kraljevskom konzervatorijumu u Gentu i diplomirala 2017. godine na Odseku klasične muzike. Nastupala je sa nekim ansamblima kao što su ictus ensemble, Spectra ensemble Ghent i Quixtet. Takođe, svira solo programe na mnogim festivalima.
